WILSON REGARDS CALL AS A REAL TEST.

President Wilson to-day awaited results of the "acid test" applied to business men of the country involved in the issuance of orders for the mobilization of 100,000 National Guardsmen,

On May 30, in Arlington Cemetery, the President told 500 veterans of the Civil War that "within a month" it might be up to the nation's industrial chiefs to determine whether the new Militia Law was to receive the support which might be expected from the business men in their enthusiasm for preparedness.

It is not likely President Wilson at this time believed the law would fire so soon. But he regards the present situation as a strict application as a face fire so soon. But he regards the present situation as a strict application of the test. He is awaiting results with keenest interest.

It is reported from El Paso that a messenger is on the way to Washington with an ultimatum calling for the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico within a week. No such messenger has yet reached Washington.

Although Congress felt that serious trouble with Mexico is at hand, Reported Not to Have More there was a feeling that the whole situation should be left to the President and military authorities.

Should Congress be called on for extra money in event of a crisis, Chairman Simmons of the Senate Finance Committee predicted an issue of bonds would be proposed. Current funds are ample for transportation expenses of the guard.

Appeals to the Almighty to cause a peaceable settlement of the trouble mile American line south of Columbus, with Mexico were voiced by the chaplains of both Houses of Congress. N. M., rushing ammunition and food Rev. J. Forrest Prettyman prayed in the Senate that "the time had not come supplies to Genreal Pershing's army of Carranza does not want war with when blood shall be shed." In the House Rev. Henry M. Couden offered 15,000 well seasoned men stretched the United States, but if it comes he this petition: "May all the difficulties with the people of Mexico be amicably adjusted without the shedding of blood. But if war must needs come, we pray that we may be prepared to meet it with courage and fortitude."
